Here are some pictures I've taken in the past few years. Actually, this is a pretty lazy representation of stuff I've shot. What is collected here is more a collection of photos I've printed in past few years. I nearly begged Ian to put out a photazine of my stuff. He said yes. I sat on it. Three months later he called me up and asked if I had the zine ready to print. I told him I could have it finished by the weekend. Oops. I sorted through pictures I had laying around, enough to make up a photazine, typed quick captions and am now writing the introduction. Here is my photazine. Most of the pictures here are of bands. Chances are anymore, if I'm at a show, I have my camera. Sometimes I get good photos, sometimes I don't. But if I don't have my camera, I'm at the very least missing the chance to take good pictures. It's hard for me to enjoy shows anymore without my camera. Sick. The other bulk of photos here are pictures I've taken just walking around various cities I've been to. I like taking pictures of postal collection boxes and people when they don't know I'm taking a picture of them. I like getting out into a strange city and exploring it with my camera. There are a lot more streetphotography type photos I would have liked to include, but my prints are being lent for reproduction in a few other zines. I could have made new prints, but like I said, this is a lazy zine, thrown together in a hurry and all that. This is Sty Zine #25. I hope you enjoy it. Postcard prints are available of any picture in here for $2. Full size prints can be had for $10 (un-framed). I have other photos of the bands seen in here, as well as a lot of other bands. Just write and ask what I've got. And I'd love to hear what you think of this—good and bad. Is this a dumb waste of paper? I can't decide. Maybe you can help me figure it out. If you care, these were taken with either a Canon AE-1 or Nikon 6006, usually with a 24 or 28mm lens; I used T-Max, Tri-X and HP5 film, whatever I can get my hands on. Thanks to Ian L., Rich R., the bands, Mike K., Amanda K., Cynthia C., and Jae S and Brenda. Look for a "regular" issue of Sty Zine with writing and contributors and Shoot the Stars and all that in the maybe-near future.
